Aloha,

Thank you for inquiring about my hardwood combs. It is my pleasure to welcome you to the world of truly proper hair care: a beauty secret that has been lost in time. Since the advent of plastics, the art of making hardwood combs has almost died out. To the best of my knowledge, I am the only combmaker in America. Combmaking has been my livelihood for the last twenty-seven years. All of my combs are handmade, using special tools that I developed. Each comb is inlaid using two pieces of kiln dried hardwood laminated together, cross-grained to combine strength in both directions, a marriage of sorts. I am currently using 13 domestic and imported hardwoods so many beautiful combinations are possible. My combs are of the highest quality in both workmanship and materials. My intent is to see that you live happily ever after.

The history and traditions of hardwood combs, in the modern era, dates back into history over 1500 years. Still usable hardwood combs have been unearthed in the middle east, carbon dated to 7100 b.c. Apparently combmaking is one of the oldest professions. The major differences between any other type of grooming devise and a finely made wooden comb is measured by the ease the combs slides thru your hair and just how much less breakage there is using wooden combs. Wood and hair are quite similar. YOU will eliminate static electrical buildup as wood does not conduct. WOODEN combs do not strip vital oils, and do not stretch hair, eliminating broken and split ends. They also provide wonderful scalp massage, stress relief. Your hair and your appearance is important to you so celebrate it with your own wooden comb.

Your happiness is absolutely guaranteed. They also carry a 30-day money back guarantee. My web page is www.combmaker.com. Color pictures and an up-to-date hardwood menu is displayed daily for your convenience. I know you will feel so good about your comb that you will consider ordering more for once-in-a-lifetime gifts. Thank you for your interest.

Happy Trails

The Things People Tell Me

“Impeccable Craft!”

“The best $20 bill I ever spent!”

“My hair is long and thick, these combs are wonderful for controlling static and not combing out the curl. I have used my comb for the last eighteen years and wouldn’t consider using anything else.” Scherry Atwall
